Situated just 3 miles south of Yellow Pine on Johnson Creek Road and directly upstream from the Johnson Creek Airport, this property offers a fantastic opportunity for a backcountry retreat at the base of Antimony Ridge. The site includes three fixer-upper summer cabins and a workshop with an overhead door, cement floor, electricity, and a wood stove. Renovate the cabins for additional living space or use them as guest quarters, while storing your outdoor gear in the spacious shop. The property is bordered by the Boise National Forest on all sides and lies just across the road from Johnson Creek, home to several species of trout and a prime location for watching spawning salmon. With abundant outdoor recreation opportunities, this is a great spot for fishing, hunting (ID F&G Unit 25), trail riding, hiking to old mining sites, snowmobiling, and more. The nearby South Fork Road is maintained during the winter months for year-round access. Note: the condition of the septic system is unknown.
